

Arabs in Burundi

What is a 'stateless' person? The Arabs in Burundi are considered stateless, as they are not given Burundi citizenship, and their original homeland of Oman does not claim responsibility for them either. The Arab population in Burundi speak Arabic as their primary language, and those who received education may speak French or English. Burundi is a resource poor country, with coffee and tea as the main cash crops.

Ministry Obstacles

The Arabs in Burundi are vast majority Muslim, and there are no known believers among them. This can make it difficult to share the gospel as it means believers from outside have to reach them.

Outreach Ideas

The Bible is available in these Arabs' main language, Arabic. This is a blessing because it means that they can read the Bible for themselves, as long as they have access to one.

Prayer Focus

Pray that the Burundi government would give them citizenship so that they are no longer stateless and can
