

Bedaria in Sudan

The Bederia are one of the numerous Baggara tribes of northern Sudan. The Baggara, also known as Shuwa Arabs, are a nomadic Bedouin people inhabiting Africa between Lake Chad and the Nile. They are cattle-herding Arabs, although sometimes mixed with indigenous tribes.

Ministry Obstacles

The Bederia tribe lives in an area difficult for outsiders to access. They also likely have a low literacy rate, so gospel materials need to be in audio form.

Outreach Ideas

Followers of Christ can help the Bederia people with their medical and educational needs. These believers will need to establish trust. There are no or few Christ followers among the Bederia people of Sudan.

Prayer Focus

Pray that soon there would be Bible-based fellowships faithfully meeting together and that pastors and teachers would rise up to lead them closer to Jesus Christ. Pray for Scripture availability. Pray for the Bederia tribe to be able to care for their families, for good water
