

Turkish Cypriot in United Kingdom

The Turkish Cypriot people in the United Kingdom are modern-day Turkish immigrants from Cyprus or descendants of people originally from there. Turkish Cypriots began to relocate to the United Kingdom in the 1920s when residents of Cyprus became subjects of the British crown. Cypriots in the United Kingdom continue to maintain their sense of community and hard work. They strive for involvement in British life while maintaining their Cypriot identity and culture.

Ministry Obstacles

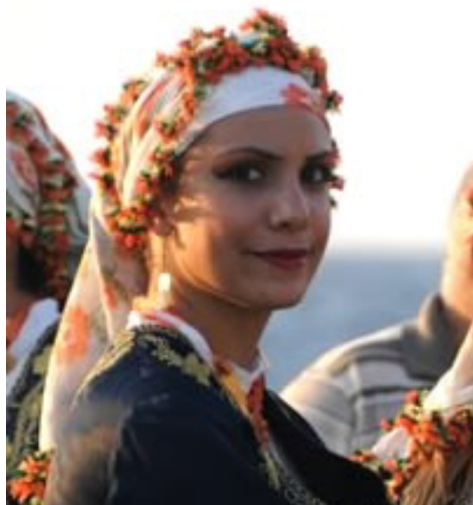

Almost all Turkish Cypriots practice Muslim ceremonies and follow Islamic beliefs. Their identity is closely tied in with the Islamic religion.

Outreach Ideas

Ask God to open their spiritual eyes to teachings in the Bible, Christian radio broadcasts and the JESUS Film. These are all available in the Turkish language.

Prayer Focus

An extremely small number of Turkish Cypriots identify as Christians. Pray for fervent believers
