

Hainanese in Cambodia

The Hainanese migrated to Cambodia more than 500 years ago. They work hard, rarely taking time off from work, and they have distinguished themselves as experts in the food catering business. Many manage coffee shops, noodle houses and other businesses in the food industry. With much of their time spent in school or at work, the Hainanese have little time for socializing or hearing the gospel.

Ministry Obstacles

There is a mindset among East Asians that Jesus is only for other people.

Outreach Ideas

Those who love Christ can be customers at Hainanese owned noodle houses during slow times, which will give them the chance to strike up spiritual conversations.

Prayer Focus

Pray for the few Christian believers among the Hainanese to take Christ actively, persistently and lovingly to others in Cambodia. Pray for the Holy Spirit to drive the Hainanese people in Cambodia into the loving arms of
