

Lobi in Burkina Faso

The name Lobi comes from two words, lou ("forest"), and bi ("children"), meaning children of the forest. They are known as warriors and have been victims of slave raids and clan warfare. They are traditionally farmers and hunters. They are strongly animistic in their religious beliefs, worshiping ancestors. Thagba is the name of their creator god. They have no direct contact with Thagba, but are dependent on nature spirits known as thila, invisible intermediaries which can harness supernatural powers towards good or evil.

Ministry Obstacle

Lobi people are under domination of spiritual powers that resist the advance of the gospel.

Outreach Idea

There are significant numbers of Christ followers among the Lobi people in Ivory Coast. They have the potential to reach their own people.

Prayer Focus

Pray that Lobi believers will be strong
