

Sidi Bedouin in Algeria

The Sidi Bedouins of Algeria are almost all Sunni Muslims, but some are Sufis who seek a heart-felt response to Allah. Most also believe in spirits known as jinni. They don't marry outsiders, and their primary language is Arabic.

Ministry Obstacles

These are tribal people, suspicious of outside influences. Due to their unique language, culture, religious beliefs and their often-nomadic lifestyle, they are hard to reach.

Outreach Ideas

There are a small number of believers among them who can disciple them. Outsiders can develop and distribute more social media and reading resources in their local language. Their Sufi beliefs might indicate that some are open to seeking a relationship with the Almighty, and Jesus can be the perfect bridge for such people.

Prayer Focus

Pray for God to draw them to Jesus Christ, the only Savior. Pray they would have dreams and visions of the one
