

Algerian Tuareg in Algeria

The Tuareg are descended from Berbers in the region that is now Libya, and also from ancient Saharan peoples. Following the independence of African countries in the 1960s, Tuareg territory was artificially divided into modern nations: Niger, Mali, Algeria, Libya, and Burkina Faso. The Tuareg adopted camel nomadism, along with its distinctive form of social organization, from camel-herding Arabs about two thousand years ago.

Ministry Obstacles

Algeria does not provide a welcome to Christian workers, as such. There is a need for innovative ideas for access.

Outreach Ideas

Pray for the few existing believers to become mature in the faith, and be given a heart to share the gospel message with their friends.

Prayer Focus

Pray for the few Christian believers among the Tuareg, that they would live exemplary lives and reveal the
