

Ahom in India

Ahom people live in India. They are descendants of Tai people who entered the Brahmaputra Valley in the early thirteenth century. Most live in Assam and speak Assamese. Ahom people have intermarried with other people groups. Most Ahom people practice the Hindu religion, but some are Buddhists. Some follow their old Furalung religion. They worship ancestors, believing they will keep them safe. They believe that when a dead person goes to heaven, he becomes a god to be worshiped. They have no hope of eternal life.

Outreach Ideas

Prayer Focus

Pray that God will give the Ahom dreams and visions, leading them to salvation. Pray the Indian Christians will help them begin their own movement to Christ that will bless their community for eternity.
