

Bhabra in India

The Bhabra are merchants and businessmen, and they mostly live in India's northwestern states of Punjab and Rajasthan. Jainism encourages people to forego all worldly pleasures, which is why the majority Hindu people that surround the Bhabra hold them in high regard. They believe in non-violence and most are vegetarians. Their belief in a many-sided reality means that truth is too complex to adequately communicate. As Jains, the Bhabra people don't understand that there is definite truth, and Jesus Christ is the truth who can set them free from religion and righteousness by works.

Ministry Obstacles

It is possible there are no Christ followers within the Jain Bhabra community.

Outreach Ideas

It will take loving believers from either business or academic backgrounds to befriend the Bhabra people and take Christ to them.

Prayer Focus

We know of no followers of Christ among the Bhabra people. Pray this will soon change. Pray for the Holy
