

Mangrik in India

The Mangrik have traditionally been farmers. Muslim butchers ensure a supply of mutton to the Mangrik since the latter refrain from killing animals. They have attained a high level of literacy, and some have even attended universities in Jammu and Kashmir.

Obstacles

It may be that the Mangrik people have formed an incorrect view of what Christians believe, based upon observation of nominal Christians in their region.

Outreach Ideas

Even though the Mangrik people may have a fairly high literacy rate, using oral means of communicating the gospel may be the best approach. Films, recordings and stories from Scripture will likely have a favorable result if their hearts are open.

Prayer Focus

There is no indication that any from the Mangrik community know Christ as Savior. Pray for those that will soon come to know and follow him. Pray they would have nothing to do with the deeds of darkness, living as children of light. Pray they would be zealous to know and follow Christ.
