

Nai in India

The Nai are a barber caste, but they do much more. In addition to cutting hair they also provide other services such as extraction of teeth and setting of sprains. They are also involved with marriage celebrations and matchmaking. Nai women are employed in jobs very conducive to marriage celebrations, such as hairdressing and application of henna.

Ministry Obstacles

The Nai have a low literacy rate. The gospel must be presented to the Nai families in ways appropriate to oral learners.

Outreach Ideas

As long as people grow hair, they will need it cut and styled. Indian believers making use of Nai services could seek God's leading to persons and houses of peace, where believers can share the truth of the gospel with whole households.

Prayer Focus

There are few known believers among the Nai. Pray that those Nai who do know Jesus will become
