

Zargar (Sikh) in India

Most of the Zargar Sikhs in India reside in the Jammu and Kashmir state. While the majority are Hindu or Muslim, some follow Sikhism. Sikh Zargar men are recognizable by their distinctive turbans.

Obstacles

The Zargar who practice Sikhism believe God to be formless. They grow closer to God by living a good life and practicing charity. They believe in reincarnation and the law of karma. It will be difficult for them to understand and embrace what the Bible says about these matters.

Outreach Ideas

Demonstrating God's love through humanitarian aid to the Zargars could be effective. Online and print materials created specifically for them could be a means of reaching those who are seeking. Faithful prayer groups can soften the spiritual resistance.

Prayer Focus

Pray for the Lord to give organizations creative ideas for sharing the gospel with the Zargar. Pray for the Lord to soften their
