

A Che in China

The A Che are included in the artificially-constructed Yi nationality, consisting of over 100 distinct groups. Hidden away in some of the most remote areas of southwest China, the A Che are known to few outsiders. They celebrate two important festivals: the Open Street Festival and the Dragon Worship Festival.

Ministry Obstacles

The A Che are polytheists. They claim that their line of communication with the Creator was broken, and they lost the ability to enter heaven. Compounding the difficult task of reaching this remotely located group is the A Che's inability to read or speak Chinese.

Outreach Ideas

As the A Che may want to learn Chinese in order to make career or social advances, evangelists can bring these language skills to them, along with the gospel.

Prayer Focus

The Heaven's Family Ministry engaged the A Che from 2003-2013. It planted a church consisting of a few Christ followers. The ministry considers the A Che to be engaged

ah chay

POPULATION: 42,000

LANGUAGE: Ache

RELIGION: Ethnic Religions

BIBLE: Translation Needed

STATUS: Unreached

but not reached (not capable of reproducing itself). Pray for godly men to be trained in sound doctrine to disciple A Che believers. Pray for them to grow in faith and begin the process of discipling the A Che people. Ask the Lord to give them a hunger and thirst for righteousness that can transform A Che society.

SCRIPTURE O Lord of hosts, blessed is the one who trusts in you! Psa.84.12

PRAY for many from this people group to find joy and hope in trusting the Lord Almighty.