

Pingdi in China

The Pingdi peoples are part of the greater Yao cluster of people groups. The majority are farmers engaged in rice cultivation.

Ministry Obstacles

The mountainous area where the Pingdi are located is rarely visited by outsiders. As a result, the Pingdi have minimal interaction with other people groups who might share the gospel.

Outreach Ideas

In the ancient past the Yao had a legend of a creator. The Yao claim, "Ages ago ... before we crossed the sea, we worshipped someone called Tin Zay, who lives in heaven and is a holy god." Christians sharing the gospel with the Yao people group could start with the story of the creator God.

Prayer Focus

Pingdi believers are often viewed as strange by their families, friends and neighbors. Pray they would overcome social obstacles by being supernaturally transformed into loving disciples. Pray for Holy Spirit-anointed believers from the Pingdi people to change their society from
