

Miranha in Brazil

The Miranha and the Bora tribes both live in the Amazon region of Brazil, and because of their similarities, they are often referred to as the Miranha Bora. They speak similar languages. The Miranha move about to different regions because of their work of selling fish and fruit. One new advantage that they have is that they speak Portuguese. The Bora live mainly in Peru, but also live in Colombia as well as the Brazilian Amazon.

Ministry Obstacles

Because of their harsh environment, outside evangelical efforts encounter many obstacles in adapting to it as well as relating to these very isolated people groups. Also, the government of Brazil is trying to protect the small tribes from contact with outsiders.

Outreach Ideas

There needs to be intense and consistent prayer for the Miranha people before there will be a breakthrough.
