

Primanar in Sri Lanka

The Primanar are a group of Tamil Brahmins who left their homeland in South India to live in the island nation of Sri Lanka. Many from the Primanar group were leaders in the Sri Lankan Civil War (1983-2009) against the Buddhist Sinhalese majority. Tens of thousands died, and the victorious Sinhalese destroyed much of the property of the Primanar.

Ministry Obstacles

Brahmins are proud of their heritage as the highest caste in Hinduism. They serve as priests and teachers of Hinduism, and they often see Christianity as a religion for the lowest castes, not for people of their stature.

Outreach Ideas

Radio and TV programs from India are available in Tamil. The Holy Spirit can direct them to these resources.

Prayer Focus

A tiny fraction of the Primanar claim to be followers of Jesus Christ. Pray that they would grow in the faith and lead their family and friends to the Savior. Pray that the Lord uses the hardships and consequences of the
